"In the summer of 1970, a pair of Canadian rock promoters assembled an amazing list of performers for a five-day tour that would begin with a concert in Toronto and then travel by train to Winnipeg and Calgary. The talent included Janis Joplin, The Grateful Dead, The Band, The Flying Burrito Brothers, Delaney and Bonnie, Ian and Sylvia, Buddy Guy... the party that accompanied it became legend... a film crew shot it all, recording priceless moments of collaboration among some of the greatest figures of that musical generation." - New York Times
