Come Sail With Us!

NEW FRIENDS • NEW SKILLS • EXCITING CHALLENGES •

"When you're on a tall ship, you know that what you're doing affects everyone's well-being, at Brigs, you know that everything you do is important. Learning to live in a small space with twenty kids teaches you how to get along. I can work aloft, rough-furl in a gale and even stay awake for the graveyard watch, I know I can accomplish things that most people never even consider trying.

I started as a Trainee, now a Petty Officer, hope to be promoted again. Where else could I be promoted into a position of responsibility at 15. I can't imagine where I would be without it."

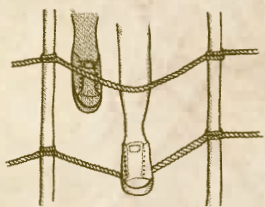

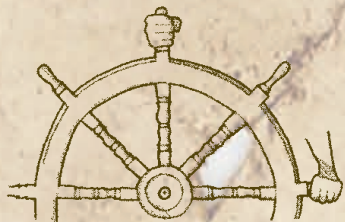

LEND A HAND

Bring all your strength on board – it can sometimes take as many as six people to haul our sails up! The whole crew must work together to sail the ships.

TAKE THE HELM

Steer a 30 ton tall ship across the world's largest freshwater lake system.

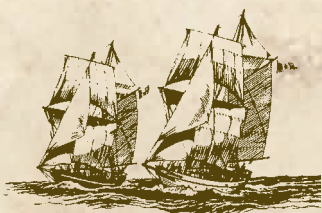

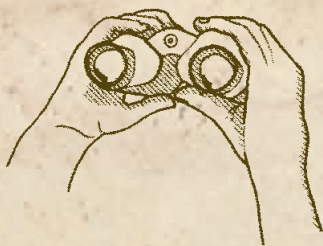

CLIMB ALOFT

Feel the movement of the waves as never before from thirty feet above the deck!

KEEP WATCH

Even during the Graveyard Watch, the crew, sometimes including you, will be on deck sailing the ship.

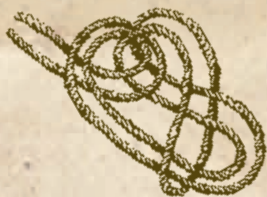

SAIL WITH THE FLEET

Be among an international fleet of Tall Ships racing around the lakes, sailing into festivals in ports like Chicago and Bay City.

STAGE NAVAL BATTLES

With water balloons and fire hoses, face down other ships! Harness the wind and waves to keep a tactical advantage.

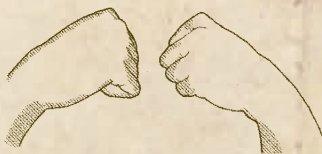

EXPLORE THE LAKES

The lakes hold twenty percent of the world's freshwater and no shortage of bays, waterfalls and islands to explore!

MAKE NEW FRIENDS

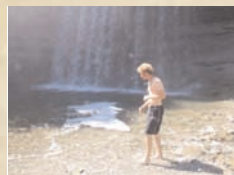

On the first day you are sailing with strangers; by the last day you are sailing with good friends!

JUMBLIES

ANNUAL REPORT 2008/2009

COMMUNITY ARTS is not so much a form as a force for change that aims to expand and transform the relationship between art and society. It places side by side two concepts that have become disjointed, and its eventual success might be heralded by the term itself becoming redundant, because art will imply, as it has implied in other times and places, community, and vice versa.

Jumbles Theatre expands where art happens, who gets to be part of it, what forms it takes and which stories it tells.

The impulse to entangle things social and aesthetic in new ways leads us to work outside of specialized art places, and to place participants at the core of our projects: forming a bridge between artist and audience.

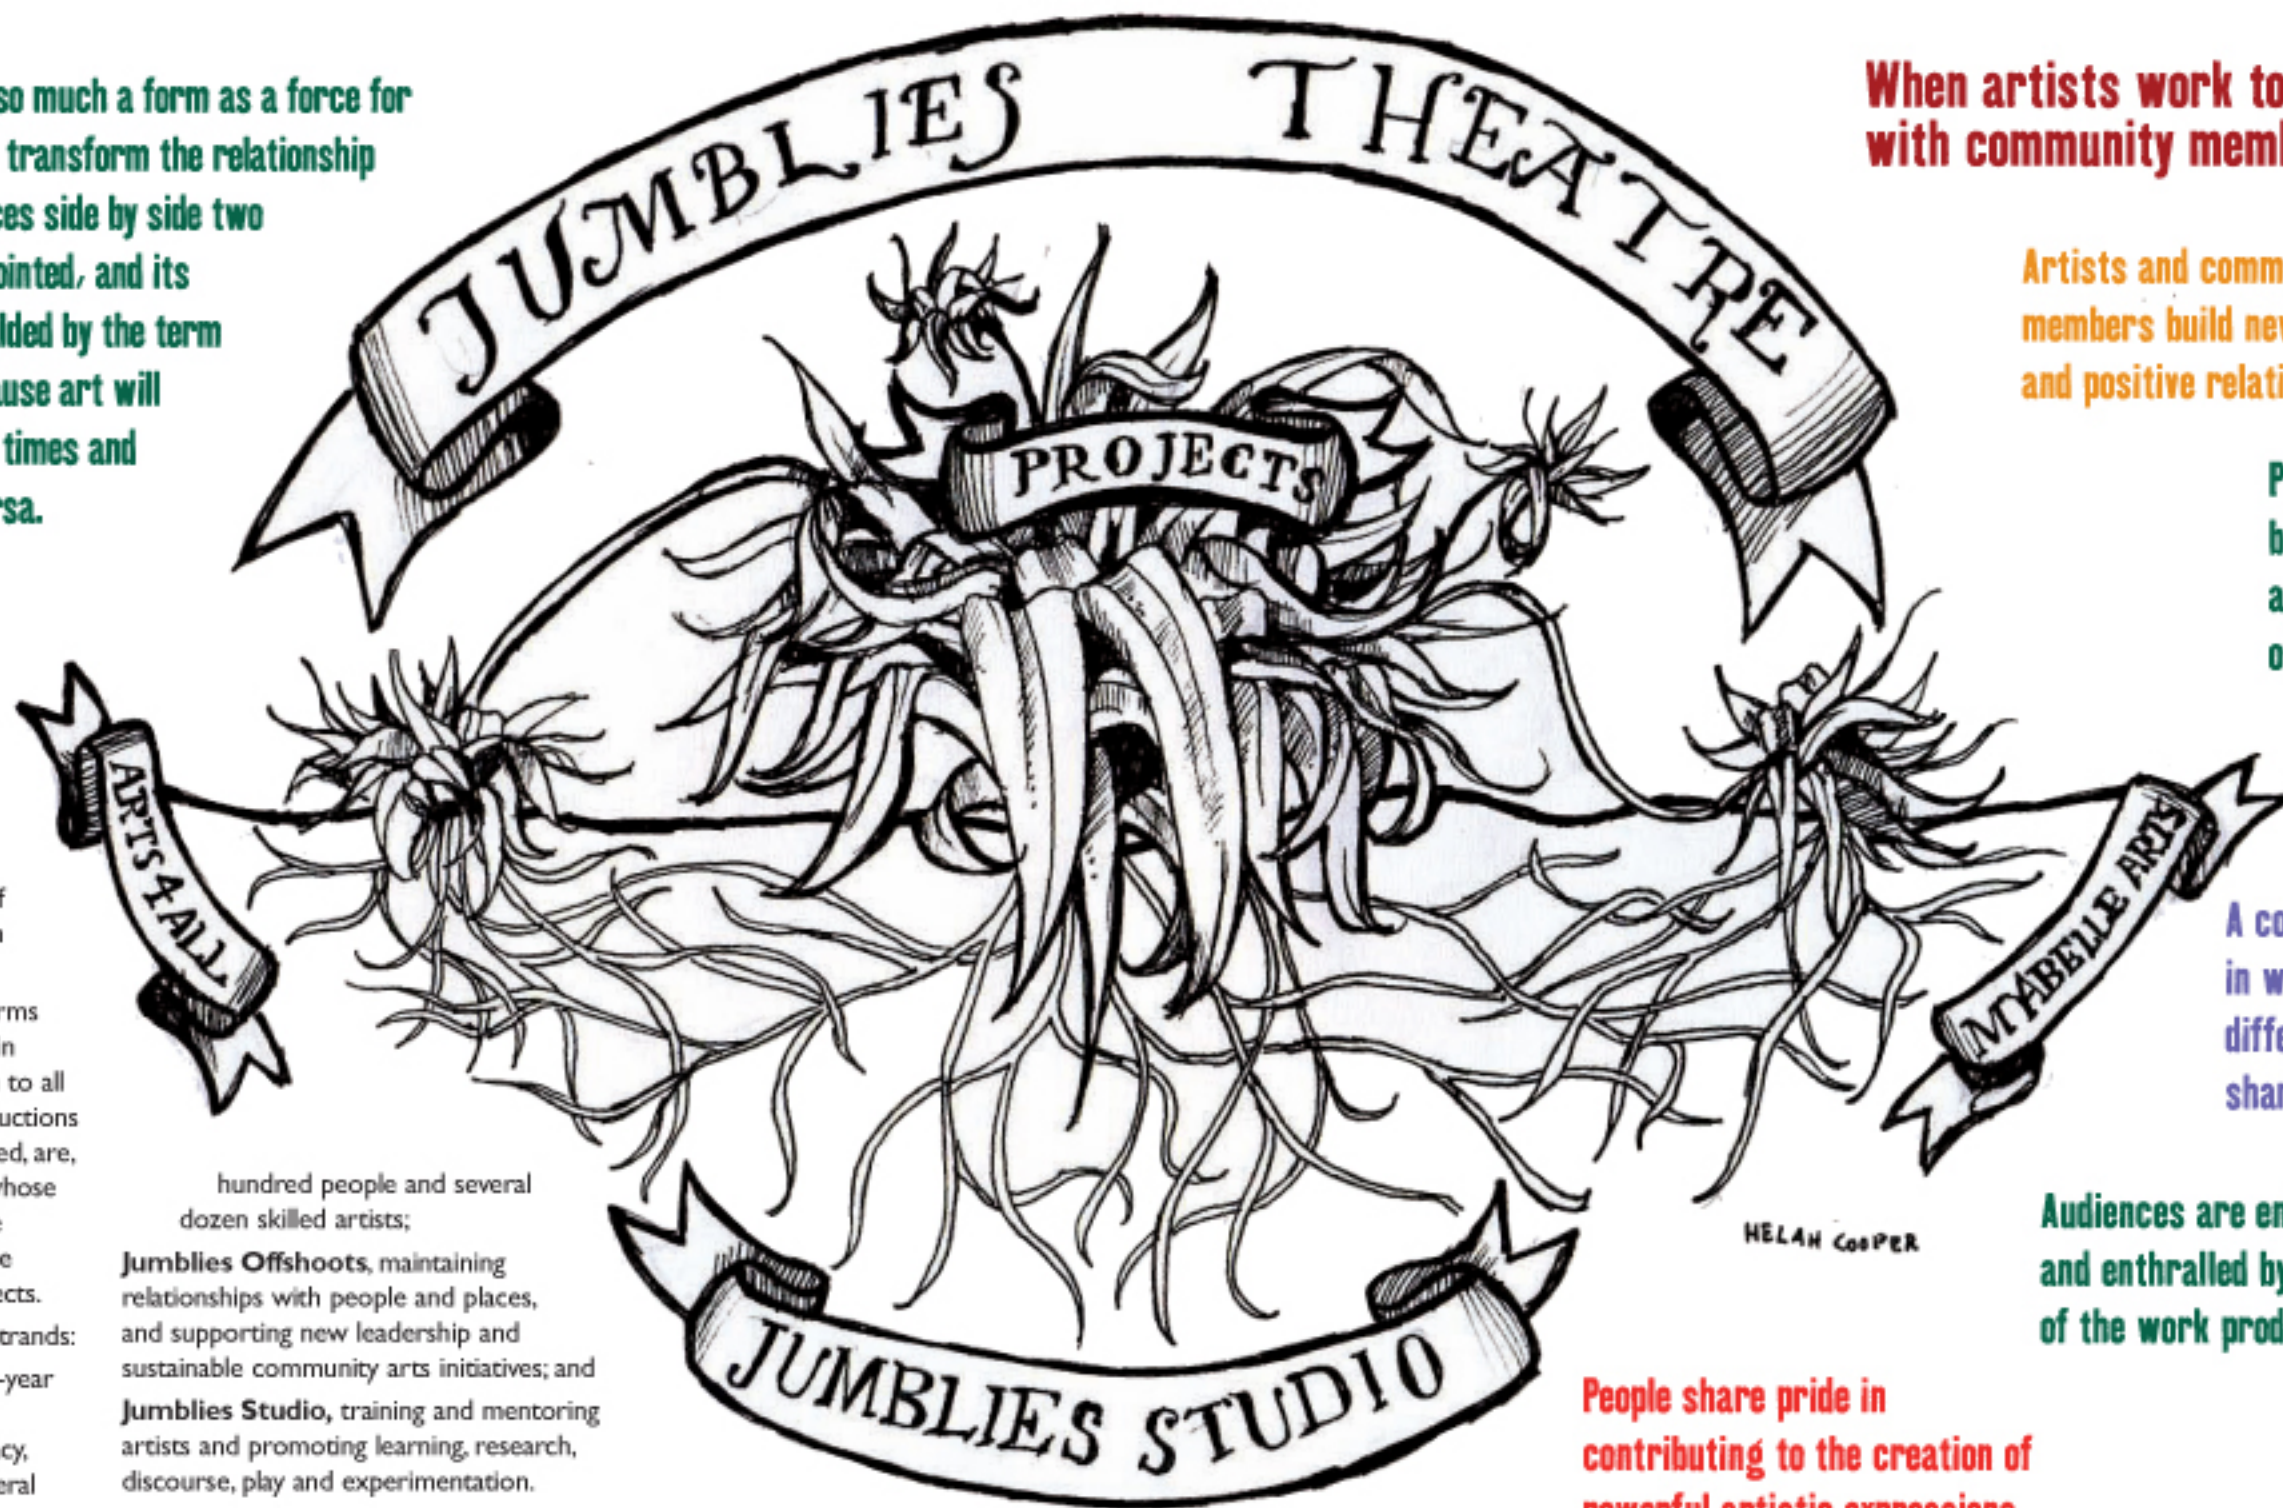

We adopt and play with established forms of theatre and arts production placed in unusual situations, with equal attention to all stages (before, during, after). Our productions and presentations, albeit highly-produced, are, in this larger view, steps in a process whose ultimate product is the experience, the change wrought, and the memory – the transient micro-utopia and its after-effects.

Our work involves three interwoven strands:

Jumbles Projects, undertaking multi-year residencies, passing through phases of research, creation, production, and legacy, forming partnerships and involving several hundred people and several dozen skilled artists;

Jumbles Offshoots, maintaining relationships with people and places, and supporting new leadership and sustainable community arts initiatives; and Jumbles Studio, training and mentoring artists and promoting learning, research, discourse, play and experimentation.

When artists work together with community members...

Artists and community members build new skills and positive relationships.

People of all ages and backgrounds learn more about themselves, each other, and the world.

A community tells its story in ways that overcome differences and foster shared identity and purpose.

Audiences are enlightened and enthralled by the quality of the work produced.

People share pride in contributing to the creation of powerful artistic expressions.

ARTS FOR ALL ESSENTIALS

A prelude to Jumblies internships, Arts For All Essentials is an intensive course on the principles, practices and underpinnings of Jumblies Theatre and arts that engage with and create community - everything (or many things!) the artist needs to know to launch a project.

Faculty: Ruth Howard, Leah Houston, Lisa Marie DiLiberto, Keith McNair, Michael Burr
Guest Facilitators: Susanne Burkhardt, Bushra Junaid, Julie Salverson, Dan Yashinsky, Heather Young, Wende Bartley

The December 2008 course was presented in partnership with the Centre for Women's Studies in Education, at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, and included presentations, discussions, guest speakers, workshops, creative explorations, videos, and resources to take home.

SCARBOROUGH RESIDENCY THE COMMUNITY ARTS GUILD

Our past work has led us to question the stories that get told, or don't, when we focus on place and those who are noticeably present. And so we are courting opportunities through this project to make art where these complexities are, for Toronto, at their extremity.

At the invitation of the City of Toronto Cultural Services, Jumblies embarked on a new residency project in East Scarborough, including the Kingston Galloway and Orton Park areas, and we set up a new home base in the Gardener's Cottage, on the beautiful grounds of Cedar Ridge Creative Centre.

In the spring, we offered workshops and got to know local people: the families and teens lodged temporarily at a local shelter and Kingston Road motels, Tamil seniors living in public housing complexes, students at Willow Park Public School, and Cedar Ridge artists.

In May, we presented Nesting, a two-week evolving exhibit/gallery event at the Cedar Ridge Gallery, showing art created by workshop participants and community members. The exhibit included a Toronto Contact show of 4 photographers connected with Jumblies over the past year (Mindy Stricke, Sean Frey, Michaela Otto and Katherine Fleitas).
